Case Close: Cafe

Int. Time unknown. Johas and Lee are sat in the operations room, either side of the table that Mille lies on, still connected to the server.

LIEUTENANT JOHAS
And you're certain that we can't pull her out?

DIRECTOR LEE
Absolutely. If we attempt anything without her mind allowing us, we risk damaging it, probably even killing her.

JOHAS
And you've got nothing to override that? Nothing to bring her back when she's unable to? What if someone's managed to get in and kidnap her? Why haven't you got anything to protect us from that?

LEE
Because nobody else should even know of this, let alone have made any measures to disrupt us.

Johas launches himself out of his seat at this

JOHAS
(Shouting) The Soviets shouldn't have known about the bomb. Castro shouldn't have known about the Bay of Pigs. You should have something prepared for this! What happens if we shut off the power?

LEE
Her mind is forced out, which, again, may kill her.

JOHAS
What happens if there's a power cut? Did you not fucking think what would happen then?

LEE
This whole facility runs off of an internal power plant. A power cut is incredibly unlikely.

JOHAS
But not impossible. At which point, anyone connected to the system is dead. Jesus fuck…

COMMANDER MILLE
The Soviets had moles. We, apparently, have a whole back door open.

Mille sits up on the table. Looking over, Johas quickly wraps his arms around her

JOHAS
Jesus fuck, I thought that…

MILLE
And you were right to, that's more or less what happened.

LEE
So that means…

MILLE
Yes, someone knows about this whole operation. They know all about what we've managed, and have taken it further. Further than we probably considered. It should be on the news now.

Johas switches one of the monitors to a news station

NEWSCASTER
… robbery was thwarted here by a brave individual who sacrificed themselves to hold off attackers in an adjacent cafe, which appears to have been the intended escape, until the police could arrive on the scene. We have received some of the footage…

JOHAS
What does this have to do with..

MILLE
Watch.

The footage shown is from one of the security cameras in the cafe, showing some of the player's actions during the previous level.

That's the body that we were looking for, and that's me controlling it. When I went into that simulation, I was taken instead to that cafe, where I was told about something peculiar.

Fade to black

Fade back to the same room, a few minutes later.

LEE
So they've managed to expand on our research so far in so little time already?

MILLE
That report confirms it for me. When I entered that body and walked out, everything was as it was when I entered the cupboard, which confirms to me that there was that consistency. That report confirms that what I saw was real.

JOHAS
Do you really think that this Launt can be trusted?

MILLE
Yes, or at least I trust that he trusts me. I can't say for certain, but we've not seen anything to indicate that anyone else knows. They accounted for all of the disturbances we've seen recently; and as I said, they don't seem to want to lie to me.

JOHAS
So what do we do now? Just wait for them to attack again? We didn't have enough information to even know that there was a group behind all of these.

MILLE
Launt's said that they're going to contact me soon. How, I don't know.

LEE
In the meantime, we operate as normal, and I'll start on some security fixes so that this can't happen to us again.

Scene End.